BRIGHT IDEA

DESIGNER JOSH GREENE AND KUFRI, A TEXTILE COMPANY KNOWN FOR ITS HANDLOOM WEAVING, TEAM UP ON A COLORFUL NEW COLLECTION

New York-based interior designer Josh Greene is no stranger to product design. He's created a furniture collection and currently has lines that include rugs, wallpaper, and even chic medicine cabinets. The new Chromia collection of fabrics with Kufri is a celebration of color, and it blends Greene's eye for the contemporary and unexpected. Chromia features pairings that bring vibrancy and magic into any space and consist of four designs—Brick, Bolt, Slant, and Topo—each available in four colorways. kufrilifeabrics.com

PAST PERFECT

CELEBRATED antiquarian and designer Tara Shaw brings a touch of the Big Easy to the Big Apple with her new furniture collection for Century. Based in New Orleans, Shaw has long been known for her passion for unique antiques, and her new creations—in an array of styles—bridge the very best of old and new. Shaw was inspired by the scarcity of beautiful and rare pieces on the market. “My love of centuries-old antiques and classic mid-century led me to create a line of furniture that is based on the past but speaks to the present.” Available through Century, 200 Lexington Ave., Suite 200, NYC, 212-479-0107, centuryfurniture.com
